Committee contributions, without the notebook.

Ahadi keeps track of event contributions. The committee records every pledge and every payment in one place, and the system sends the reminders by itself over SMS and WhatsApp. On the day of the meeting, the report is already done.

> The money never passes through Ahadi.
>
> Contributions go straight to your committee's own mobile money number or bank account. Ahadi is a register that remembers and reminds. It is not a bank, and it never holds anyone's money.

What you need

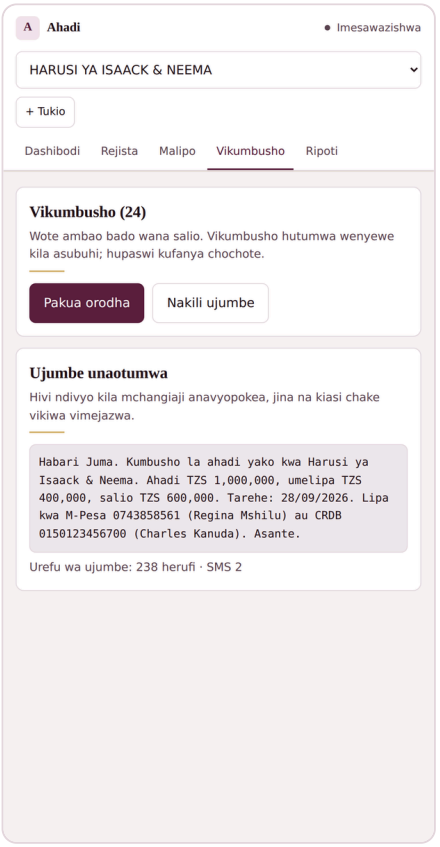

- A phone or computer with internet, for committee members only.
- The names and phone numbers of your contributors.
- Contributors need no account, no app and no smartphone. They receive ordinary SMS.

Dashboard: total pledged, collected, outstanding and overdue.

Register: every contributor and where they stand.

Reminders: what is going out and what has gone.

Eight steps

1

Create an account

Go to ahadi.cardstz.co.tz and tap "Create an account". Enter your name, email and a password of eight characters or more. You will get a confirmation email. Accounts are for committee members only.

2

Create the event

Tap "+ Event". Enter the event name, its date and the amount you are aiming to raise.

3

Add your ways to pay

M-Pesa, Mixx, Airtel Money, Halopesa or a bank account. You can enter up to four. These are what appear in every message a contributor receives.

4

Register contributors

Open the Register. Enter the name, phone number, pledge amount and due date. The contributor receives a confirmation message immediately, carrying your payment details.

5

Already have a list?

You do not have to retype it. Upload an Excel or CSV file, or photograph your handwritten notebook. Ahadi reads it and arranges it, and you check it before saving.

6

Record payments

Open Payments, choose the person, and enter what they paid and how. A receipt showing the remaining balance goes to them at once.

7

Reminders send themselves

The system checks every morning and writes to those who are due: three days before the date, on the day itself, then weekly until they pay. Nobody has to make the phone call.

8

Share with the group, then report

"Share with the group" gives you a read-only link to paste into the WhatsApp group. It updates itself and shows no phone numbers. On the day of the meeting, Report gives you a PDF or Excel.

Questions people ask

Does the money pass through you?

No, and it never will. Contributions go straight to the number or account you entered.

What if a contributor has no smartphone?

They receive an ordinary SMS. No app, no internet and no WhatsApp needed.

Who can see the list?

Committee members with an account, and anyone holding the read-only link you sent to the group. You can issue a new link at any time, and the old one stops working.

Can one number carry more than one pledge?

Yes. A father entering pledges for each of his children under his own number, for example.

What if someone asks not to be reminded?

They reply STOP on WhatsApp and their reminders stop immediately.

Can a contributor check their own balance?

Yes. They send BALANCE on WhatsApp and get an answer straight away.

How long is the data kept?

Twelve months after the event is closed, then it is deleted. The full policy is at ahadi.cardstz.co.tz/sera.

What does it cost?

Call us and we will talk it through against the size of your event.

Would you like to try it?

Message us on WhatsApp. We will set up your first event and walk you through it step by step.
